Oil, Gas and Mining Technical Division, The Institution of Engineers, Malaysia & in collaboration with Institution of Mechanical Engineers Malaysia Branch (IMECHE)

Synopsis

This two-day course is designed to help you develop skills that will enable you to produce clear and effective technical documents. We will focus on the basic principles of good writing which technical writing shares with other forms of writing and on types of documents common in technical fields and organizations. While the emphasis will be on writing of technical information, oral communication will also form an important component of the course as well. Participants learn the protocol for proper technical report writing. Subjects include punctuation, grammar and research techniques, as well as the creation of title pages, tables of contents, format pages, glossaries and appendices. It will also cover other common engineering documents such as specifications, technical reports, operating manuals and emails. The workshop will also emphasize style, tone and the importance of writing in plain, comprehensible English. As a great deal of class time will be spent in a variety of interactive formats, active participation is essential.

Learning Outcomes

- At the end of the course delegates will:
- understand the benefits and challenges of effective technical writing
  - be aware of the fundamental concepts of writing as a communication skill
  - know how to plan their document for maximum effect
  - be able to write in a style that is clear and appropriate
  - be able to use punctuation correctly and effectively
  - appreciate the importance of a document review
  - know how to use social media for professional networking

Why this course?

- Excellent Value
- Detailed guide book and templates for continuous learning and improvements
- Practical learning approach using latest tools
- Limited class size to ensure quality delivery
- Helps you to develop your own personal branding
