The IEM Electrical Engineering Final Year Project (EEFYP) 2016 was successfully held at Wisma IEM on 19th August 2016. This event was supported by International Copper Association Southeast Asia with the aim to provide a platform for the best electrical and electronic engineering students to pitch their final year projects as well as for the professional engineers to motivate and inspire the students. A total of 7 universities participated with each sending 2 of their best students to compete. Participating students were required to present only from their posters with two of them even brought along their experimental setup and hardware to aid their presentation. The judges were generally satisfied with the quality of the projects presented. After completion of the presentation and judging processes, a dialogue session led by Ir. Lee Boon Chong who was also one of the judges was held. The aim of this dialogue session is to encourage communication between the graduating students and the judges whom are all professional engineers. An active participation from the students was highly visible with constant flow of questions which were all answered by the panel of judges. The professional engineers also gave important and inspiring advises to all students. At the end of the competition, 5 consolation prizes worth RM200 each were awarded to the winners. Interestingly, a tie-breaker was required to select the first runner-up. Both Mr. Chiah Thong Ling from Taylor’s University and Mr. Lim Jian Hau from Tunku Abdul Rahman University College was given 2 minutes each to pitch their own respective project in which the former eventually emerged victorious and taking home RM750 while the latter won RM500. The champion was Mr. Mazin Moghazi from Multimedia University who bagged home RM1,000. The tables and figures below summarized the event.
