SYNOPSIS

The backbone of the RSPO scheme is the certification in upstream and downstream member organisations. This ensures that the chain of custody is intact and that end users can be guaranteed the use of sustainable oil palm products. The consequences of being certified is an annual audit in which the members are audited against the agreed standards. The standard for the plantations and oil mills vary from environmental, technical, human rights to management settings and are defined in the Principles and Criteria.

BIODATA OF SPEAKER

Mr. Jan Van Driel graduated from Delft University Technology with a Master of Science (MSc), Chemical Engineering in 1979 and OUBSS, Economics from University Oxford in 1997.

Mr. Jan Van Driel has started his career in Unilever and worked in the oils and fats industry even since. He worked in the Netherlands, United States, UK, South Africa and Russia. After having worked in Russia, Jan settled in Malaysia and joined RSPO. In his current role, he oversees all aspects of certification in RSPO and is responsible for the training activities by the RSPO endorsed trainers. Jan was a member of the original RSPO Criteria Working Group and also later as a member of the P&C Review Task Force.
