SYNOPSIS

An emergency situation is a condition that requires immediate attention and response to avoid or minimise the possibility of spiralling into a more fatal or dangerous, critical circumstances. Many Malaysians are unaware about the importance of prevention, preparation and preservation. The importance of crisis prevention is often neglected or ignored due to the lapse in understanding the consequences.

While there is nothing we can do about natural catastrophes, preparation is the best option we have. The consequences of ignorance and arrogance often proved apologetic and tragic, in which most cases could have been prevented or avoided should we Malaysians are well equipped with knowledge and skills to deal with situation when arises.
