WHAT IS IT ABOUT?

Since the formation of ASEAN Federation of Engineering Organisations (AFEO) in 1973, the AFEO Board on 25th Nov 1996 established a Working Group (WG) to share information on the education systems, engineering curriculum, recognition of degrees and qualifications, accreditation of qualifications and requirements for achieving professional engineer status of each ASEAN Institutions. This led to the formation of the ASEAN Engineers Register (AER), initially by IEM in 1999 with fifty members. The paper then discussed the objectives and benefits of being on the Register together with the activities and challenges on the mobility of engineers will be discussed.

The talk elaborates on International agreements for degree accreditations and recognition of engineering competency such as Washington Accords, APEC Engineers, IEA, EUR ING, etc. which had been set up to facilitate an international recognition and acceptance of cross border engineering services.

Ir. Ellias will present on the current status of the register and activities towards encouraging mobility of professionals and engineering services within ASEAN and challenges on how ASEAN Engineers can work together and also to export their expertise internationally.
