SYNOPSIS ABOUT UNIVERSITY OF MALAYA

University of Malaya offers advanced world-class facilities that cover a broad range of expertise both in Research and Teaching environment. Research is a key activity within the faculty and the management encourages large-scale studies and a flexible approach to inter-disciplinary collaborations with other academic institutions and members of the industry in order to tackle the wide range of issues facing the society and the natural world. The Faculty of Engineering has invested heavily in the student experience and places research-led teaching at the core of the program. Given the current trend for cultivating international talent and exchanges, the international strategy acts as a centripetal force that attracts both students and researchers of the highest caliber from around the world. The Faculty of Engineering here at the University of Malaya is proud in a long-standing international reputation and the faculty strive to create a learning environment that embodies a community of ideas, technical excellence and innovation. Above all, Universiti Malaya's Engineering faculty is now ranked among the top among global universities in the field of engineering. This was based on the US News 2018 Best Global Universities Ranking.
