SYNOPSIS

Sustainable energy encompasses both renewable energy (RE) and energy efficiency (EE). Malaysia has made great strides in advancing the application of RE & EE by introducing appropriate policies and programmes in the country. These policies and programmes have met with mixed outcomes as we went through the learning curve. As the focus towards sustainable energy is gaining more attention worldwide, our country must also continue to promote the development of RE & EE in order to address the issues of climate change and energy security. With the advent of technology and changing industry & market landscapes, it is time for Malaysia to re-visit the current policies and programmes so that we can build upon our current momentum. This talk will provide the background and current status of the sustainable energy industry in Malaysia, and discuss the possible trajectories for us by introducing several policy measures and programmes
