SYNOPSIS

The first step in the Planning Phase is to define the policies, procedures, and documentation which will govern the production of the project schedule. Plan Schedule Management is the process of establishing the policies, procedures, and documentation for planning, developing, managing, executing and controlling the project schedule. This includes the development of the Work Breakdown Structure and its importance and usefulness. About decomposing the WBS into meaningful lower levels. Also about estimating resources and resource management. I will also be talking about the importance of resource allocation in relation to the project budget. After the project plan has been developed, the importance of schedule control. Crashing the project plan in order to meet a new completion date. What is the Critical path and its impact on a schedule. What to look out for when doing schedule analysis, and how to rectify the errors in the project plan.

BIODATA OF SPEAKERS

Ir. Vincent Wong is currently the Deputy Chairman of the Project Management Technical Division in IEM. He obtained his Bachelor of Engineering (Civil) and Masters of Science from University Putra Malaysia. Prior to finalizing his Masters Course Work in 2002, he joined SSP Geotechnics Sdn Bhd as a Geotechnical Engineer. He was involved in the design of highways, reclamations, soft ground treatment, hilly site development, pile foundation resolutions, marine geotechnical works, electrified double track train projects, dam projects, and SMART tunnel projects.
