Synopsis – CIPAA & ADJUDICATION – LATEST TRENDS’

Payment has always been a major problem in construction industry. To overcome this problem, a dispute resolution process known as adjudication was introduced initially in UK and thereafter to Australia, New Zealand and Singapore.

Construction Adjudication is a ‘rough and ready’ dispute resolution process available to almost all parties to construction contracts. It is meant to provide for a swift interim dispute resolution process. Its primary purpose is to provide an interim solution to a dispute in order to maintain cash flow through the supply chain, from the manufacturers of building materials to sub-contractors and eventually to Main Contractors. The adjudication can either be a contractual or statutory procedure.

Followed other counties, Malaysia had enacted the Construction Industry Payment and Adjudication Act 2012 (CIPAA) which will provide statutory adjudication to parties involved in payment disputes. The Act had taken effect since 15th April 2014. There are, till 15th April 2017, more than 800 cases being filed for adjudication in KLRCA. Thus the parties are now able to resolve their payment disputes via statutory adjudication under the Act.

This seminar aims to provide the procedure required under the Act for statutory adjudication and also the potential problems that parties may encounter.
