Are you being sued as Construction Professionals?

Construction Professionals have been sued in the infamous case of Highland Tower. Another one is being brought in the recent hillslope collapse in Penang.

- Who bears responsibility for negligent design?
- Do Construction Professionals owe duties to third parties?
- What are the standards in design demanded from the Construction Professionals and does performance below these standards mean breach of duties resulting in liabilities?
- Can these liabilities be restricted in scope and in duration?
- Does Professional Indemnity Insurance assist in lessening the burden?
- How do we deal with disputes arising from allegation of professional negligence?
